EASTER SATURDAY GOLFING.

MENZIES AND BROWNELL WIN PRESIDENT'S CUPS.

Monthly Handlean at Dyker Meadow and Marine and Field-Class A Event at Crescent A. C.-Princeton, '04, Beats Illiside-Links Opened for Season.

One of the largest gatherings at the first meet of the season since the removal to Chaun-cey was out for the opening handicap at the St. Andrews Golf Club yesterday. Two cups were in play, for the best net and best gross eards, the gift of the president, Joseph B. Thomas, who stood at the first tee as the vol-unteer starter. The links was bright in new turf and the full course was in use. The distances were the same as last year, 2,805 out and 2,737 in, the total being 5,542 yards. There were seventy starters, who greatly enjoyed the outing whether they turned in cards or not for owing to the lack of practice there were far more than the average to suppress their scores. The course looked its best, the back-ground of trees in bud and the bursting blosoms of the dogwood adding to the picturesque view from the clubhouse

W. Menzies won the gross score cup with an 83, splendid work and proof positive that he is well on his game. He began poorly, pulling into the woods and barely getting out on his second, the hole making the disma record of nine for the top of the card. But thereafter Menzies made no mistakes and the bad luck at setting out was soon overcome.

Menzies was at scratch and so was Archie Reid, who made 91, which was equalled by R. M. Rogers and A. S. Brownell, who won the net cup on his allowance of 12. D. P. Kingsley made his round in 90, which was next best gross score after Menzies.

The summary:
A. S. Brownell, 91, 12—79; F. W. Menzies, 83, 0—83;
F. de Forrest Simmons, 92, 7—85; J. J. Akins, 94—9

There were fifteen entries in the class A handicap at the Crescent A. C. links yesterday, the winner being H. W. Ormsbee, a newcomer in the division, who made the good gross round of S5, which was only beaten a stroke by C. C. Mason, virtually a scratch man, as the club's ratings are based on last year's Metropolitan general list, which gave eight to the best of the Crescent players. Mason has been playing in winning form in Florida and found the turf slow after the sanded greens. The course was the same as last year, as Strath will not make any changes for the present, but the regular putting greens will not be used until next week. Ten cards were posted, as follows: H. W. Ormsbee, 85, 18—67; W. B. Rhett, 91, 18—73; D. V. B. Hegeman, 89, 12—70; C. C. Mason, 84, 8—76; C. M. Bull, 92, 12—80; W. P. Plekett, 91, 10—81; Walter Moore, 100, 17—83; H. A. Tucker, 93, 9—81; A. Midsummer conditions prevailed at the Dyker Meadow Golf Club yesterday, where the members, who have had an enjoyable winter series of competitions on the short course, began the regular season with the first of the monthly handicaps, using the full course. A new tee has been built for the second hole, shortening the distance from 185 to 165 yards; but the eighth tee has been put back twenty yards, making the carry over the pond about 130 yards and leaving the total round the same in distance as last year. Daniel Chauncey, the club's president, had the distinction of winning the opening competition, and there was a tie for second place between W. J. Geddes and J. E. Butts. NEWS OF THE WHEELMEN. Riders Come Near Losing Park Privileg

-Metropole Club's Good Work. A fatal blow at the free use of the parks by wheelmen has been warded off by the alertness and energy of that "old guard" organization, the Metropole Cycling Club. The danger lay in the amended Bailey-Doughty bill which is now pending before the New York State Legislature and which has been advanced to third reading ofter meeting with the approval of the auto-mobilists. The incident in point is an illustration of how a serious encroachment upon vested rights might be made were not some

The amendment as originally introduced by Senator Edwin Balley, Jr., of Suffolk county, was Senate bill 550, an act to amend the Highway act of 1890, which is otherwise known to bicyclists as the "Liberty bill," because it classed bicycles as vehicles and gave them the right to use all highways and park roads. park roads. A section of the act of 1890 reads: "The commissioner, trustees or other au-thorities having control or charge of any highway, public street, park, parkway or place shall have no authority to pass, en-place shall have no authority to pass, en-force or maintain any ordinance, &c., by which any person using a bicycle, automo-bile, &c., shall be excluded or prohibited from having free use of any such highway."

The Bailey amendment, as originally printed, proposed, among other things, to amend this section, by striking out the word park. This would enable park commissioners to exclude bicycles and automobiles from any park under their jurisdiction.

Alexander Schwalbach of Brooklyn, one of the earliest riders, and for years prominent as a good roads and wheelmen's rights advo-cate, read the bill, discovered the menace in it and aroused his fellow members of the Metropole Club to action. A letter was sent to Senator Bailey. The Senator introduced the bill as a measure to further regulate auto-Protective Association, and the matter was referreed to him. Congressman Scudder wrote, saying he had no intention of striking at bicycles and that the amendment must be a "mistake of the State printer." He hurried to Albany and had the necessary correction made. The "printer's mistake" of singling out the word "park" to be omitted was a glarring one, and yet the bill in this form was in imminent danger of being passed.

The New York and the Alpha Motor Cycle Club will have a joint run to-day after meeting at Flushing. The New York club will start from Manhattan and the Alpha from Brooklyn. From Flushing the united forces will proceed by way of Bayside, Manhasset, Roslyn and Jericho to Hickaville. The return will be made by the Jericho pike to Mineola, then by Hempstead, Millburn, Lynbrook and Jamaica to Brooklyn.

Floyd McFarland and Iver Lawson arrived in the city yesterday from Atlanta. Ga., where they rode in the six-day race that concluded with a grand spill, mix-up and fistight last Monday night. "Mac" and Lawson joined the colony that is assembling at Newark waiting for the Vailsburg track to open. The management of the track has determined, however, not to open it until it is known what is to be done by the Mayor about the Sunday races. A petition is now being circulated in Vailsburg asking the Mayor to permit Sunday races and it is believed that so many signatures of the Mayor's supporters will be obtained to this petition that the Mayor will not put the prohibitive license fee of $500 a Sunday on the races.

Chairman Batchelder of the N. C. A. Board of Control received word yesterday that the demurrer entered by the N. C. A. counsel to the suit for mandamus compelling his reinstatement instituted by Alexander A. McLean had been sustained by the court and that McLean must file a new complaint. The attitude of McLean is a peculiar one. He was suspended for not paying prizes won by riders in a six-day race run at Boston in January 1902.

SEE GAME WITH NEW YORKS.

The real old baseball enthusiasm was prevalent at the Jersey City Eastern League grounds yesterday afternoon when the Jersey City team played the New York Nationals. The Jersey rooters turned out in such large num-bers that all the stands were filled and many stood up back of the outfield ropes. It was an assemblage keen for baseball, and the game, though one-sided and a whitewash for Jersey City, held appreciative attention from first to last, and a couple of scraps in the bleachers attracted only passing notice. When Mathewson retired to the dressing room more eyes followed him by far than fixed on a man engaged in giving another a blue eye. Cops speedly squelched the latter, but Mathewson was a more enduring attraction. Barring the mix-ups on the side, the c rowd was as orderly as most baseball crowds are—as it was large and impartial in applause.

The Jersey Citys were short of practice and their batting eyes were out of plumb. They made two hits in five innings off Marconin. Armored Fleating Battery, Which He Believes to Be Practically Impregnable-Designed to Carry Heavy and Light Guns and Torpedo Tubes.

The friends of Anson Phelps Stokes have never pointed him out as an inventor, from a patent that he has just taken out on a floating naval battery it appears that they will be justified in amending their catalogue of his accomplishments. As a matter of fact, however, Mr. Stokes in recent years has taken out several patents, one of which is a centreboard for a Mr. Stokee's latest patent was issued to him on last Tuesday and THE SUN has obtained a copy of the specification through the kindness of his lawyers, Kerr, Page & Cooper. The design of Mr. Stokes's battery is, roughly speaking, that of an apple. Imagine the apple weighted down with enough lead to bring it about half under water, with its stem upright and with the ends of two toothpicks emerging from one quarter of the fruit, and you have a rough picture of Mr. Stokes's invention. The stem of the apple represents the smokestack of the war machine. The toothpicks represent two heavy guns, such as might be used for coast defence. Then down below your apple hang a little crooked pin to stand for an anchor of the mushroom type and the picture is externally complete.

VERTICAL SECTION OF THE BATTERY. Here is what Mr. Stokes himself has say about his battery:

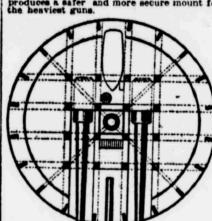

Heretofore numerous attempts, more or less successful, have been made to produce a floating battery which would prove practi-cally impregnable; but these batteries have all possessed certain disadvantages which, among other objects, it is the purpose of my invention to overcome.

My battery I make substantially spherical

My battery I make substantially spherical or globular in shape, for the reason that this form gives greater strength and safety, and greater capacity for the same weight of construction. It will be seen that by reason of the spherical shape of my battery or vessel considerable weight is saved in construction, and from this and especially by allowing the guns to extend across most of the vessel, much heavier guns can be carried. Considerable economy in the cost of construction results from the spherical shape of the battery for the reason that a large number of the parts are mere duplicates of one another and for other reasons obvious to a naval constructor.

and for other reasons obvious to a naval con-structor.

Another item of economy results from the fact that no gun carriage is used to hold the large guns. These carriages must neces-sarily be very expensive and their omission not only saves a considerable expense, but produces a safer and more secure mount for the heaviest guns.

HORIZONTAL SECTION OF MAIN DECK.

The heavy armor covering for doors, windows, portholes, &c., can be more easily supported and more safely moved on the upper part of a spherical surface than on the vertical or nearly vertical sides of an ordinary ship. The spherical form of most of the vessel, combined with the building bottom and its conical openings and the placing of the centre of gravity of the guns at or near that of the vessel, gives additional stability which is not found in vessels of the ordinary type.

Thus all the features of my invention combine to produce a floating battery that is economical in construction and maintenance of great power in offensive operations and practically impregnable.

ments for motive power that indicate that it is not meant to be a helpless mass of steel.

Allowances have been made for the installation of guns of light calibre and of torpedo tubes for the repulsing of small craft that might take it into their heads to sneak up and try to pot the big fellow. Parts of the upper deck have armor coverings or roofs that slide in grooves in the top of the circular armor sides. There are passages around the applestem smokestack for ventilation.

Inside the craft Mr. Stokes plans to have two boats that can be sent to the water through ports, and outside on the stern he plans to place another. Besides the mushroom anchor, which, when it is not in use, is drawn up into the "core" of the craft, there is another anchor on the outside of the battery at the bow.

To elevate the guns the inventor would tip up the bow of his craft by a system of counterpoises and possibly by a shifting of the water ballast.

Mr. Stokes is now on a yacht cruise in the Caribbean Sea, but is expected home soon. He is anxious to get the Government interested in his floating battery and has written to the Secretary of the Navy to that effect. He has received no reply, so far as his lawyers know. Mr. Stokes has had his invention protected in foreign countries.

Most conscientious doctors will not administer mercury without first warning the patient of its effects, but they know of nothing better. Indeed, until the administering by the International Serum Toxin Co., St. James Building, New York, of anti-toxin serum discovered by Dr. Francis A. Sieber, there was no other alternative left for the person afflicted with blood poison. There is now, for the first time in the history of civilization, a certain and scientific treatment for this terrible disease, and it is curing hundreds of blood poison sufferers hitherto pronounced incurable. A FREE TREATISE ON BLOOD POISON IS SENT FOR THE

ASKING.

We understand that any person sending a name and address to Department B, International Serum Toxin Co., St. James Building, New York, will receive in a plain envelope a valuable explanatory freatise on contagious blood poison. An examination of this interesting little work shows that, while a complete medical history of blood poison is given, the language employed is plain, everyday English, which can be readily comprehended. The book is entirely free from obscene pictures or suggestions, and there are no "testimonials." The Sieber serum treatment, however (which is the only cure for specific blood poison), is thoroughly described as to treatment, application and terms. Every person suffering from blood poison, in no matter how advanced a stage, should send to the Company The physicians in the various offices of the International Serum Toxin Co. in the leading cities are a high-minded body of scientific men. They have been aptly called "business doctors," because they are busy all day long in thoroughly explaining the Sieber serum treatment with which they are curing the most obstinate cases of blood poisoning, but they never endeavor to influence, in the slightest degree, the decision of an applicant. Every person who calls is for this valuable book, from which these paragraphs are taken:

"And now for the CURF-for the Hope!

"The Sieber serum is an animal lymph which is injected under the skin and which absolutely eradicates every trace of blood poison from the blood, never to return.

"Its application by needle injection subcutaneously is entirely painless and absolutely harmless in results. Its action is instancause, and throws off all poisons of the system through the kidneys and bowels."

NEVER CURED AT HOME.

NEVER CURED AT HOMF.

Dr. Sieber has been frequently importuned to send his wonderful serum, which is antitoxin to blood poison, to his brother physicians in various parts of the country. The International Serum Toxin Co., which owns and administers this treatment, is always abliged, however, to refuse such requests. For the patients' protection, the treatment is never given excepting by the doctors especially drilled by Dr. Sieber for the administration of the serum. This Company, however, has offices in New York, Chloago, Washington, Boston, St. Louis, Hot Springs and Pittsburg, and will open offices in other cities from time to time. In a year, in fact, there will be no reason why any person suffering with blood poison cannot be completely cured by this wonderful treatment, either at or near their own home.
